Reduce your Carbon Footprint with DigitalMeeting

Change the way you work.

Environmental awareness is fast becoming a major topic. A company's Carbon Footprint is a measure of the environmental damage being done by that company. This is the total amount of "Greenhouse Gases" (which trap excess heat within the atmosphere) produced, and the benchmark for this is measured in tonnes of CO2.

The use of individual motor vehicles to travel to and from meetings is expensive and wasteful to the company, reducing the potential profitability. International flights are a costly and time consuming way to carry out your business and who wants to host a meeting when jetlagged rather than from their own desk...or even their own home!?

The financial benefits of DigitalMeeting are plain to see as the cost of travel is greatly reduced. Have a look at what you can save with our ROI calculator at www.technilink.co.uk

The less your employees have to travel, the better the work life balance will become, at the same time you and your employees will become actively environmentally responsible.

As your customers become more aware, they are actively seeking to use low carbon producing companies, an environmentally responsible business will have more success than a "dirty" business.

Using DigitalMeeting will slash the amount of time and cost of holding meetings; not only from travel, but lessened paper wastage and unnecessary duplication of agendas, etc. You can improve your profitability whilst making a sound environmental statement on behalf of your business.

It is likely that the Treasury will introduce more taxation for companies that are not being seen to be making any effort to become more environmentally responsible.

Using DigitalMeeting is a sound business decision, not only financially but also in the protection of the planet on which we all live.
